FOR SALE.
TO GRAZERS.

In pursuance of the last will and testament of General David Forman, deceased, will be exposed to sale, at public vendue, (on the premises) on Wednesday the 25th day of October next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon of that day,
THAT very valuable FARM and PLANTATION, lying on the Long Marsh in Queen Anne's county, state of Maryland, containing about five hundred acres, about fifteen miles from Chelster town, six from Church hill, and twelve from the head of Chelster.

This property is an object of very great speculation, particularly to any person in the grazing line, and in fact to any person wishing to value their money in lands. There is a very large proportion of laid farm laid down in timothy, and will cut grass sufficient, I doubt not, to pay a neat profit of 5.0 dollars a year. There are also about twenty acres more cleared and fit to lay down in grass; and what renders it more valuable is, that when once the timothy is well set, it will last any person's life time: And what is called the bed of the Marsh, (of which there is a considerable part belonging to this farm) the soil is from four to six feet deep, of a black rich loam, and will average from two and an half to three tons of timothy an acre; and for two years past all the hay which could be spared from the farm, has sold at the stack for five pounds a ton. The arable land is calculated for wheat, rye, Indian corn, and particularly for what is called kite-foot or bright tobacco; it is well timbered, and contains maple swamps, that when cleared, will make meadows equal to any on the farm.
Any person wishing to purchase, can view the premises on application to Mr. Stephen Forman, on said farm. The conditions of sale will be, one half the purchase money on the first day of January next, and the remainder on the first day of May following.

Surviving Executor.

Notice is hereby given,
THAT upon application to me by Joseph P. Minnick, and John W. Bloomfield for themselves, by John W. Bloomfield in right of Ann his wife, William Bullus, John Moore, in the right of his wife Mary, John Bullus and Ruth Bullus, who claim an undivided sixth part of all that tract of land situate, lying and being in Springfield, Burlington county, containing eleven hundred and eighty-eight acres and a half of an acre or thereabouts, formerly devised by Mary Ludlam to Francis Bullus, who by his last will and testament devised the same tract to William Bowler, and John Turner in trust for Samuel Bullus his son in fee, which said Samuel Bullus by his deed bearing date on or about the 5th day of March 1796, conveyed the same to his children Francis Bullus, and the same Ann Bloomfield, formerly Ann Bullus, William Bullus, Mary Bullus, now Mary Moore, John Bullus and Ruth Bullus, I have nominated and appointed Job Lippencott, Esq. of Springfield aforesaid, Abraham Stockton and Chas. Ellis, both of the city of Burlington, commissioners, to divide the said tract into six equal shares or parts, and unless proper objections are stated to me on the 21st day of Nov. next, at my office in the city of Burlington at ten o'clock in the morning of that day, the said Job Lippencott, Abraham Stockton and Charles Ellis, will then be appointed the Commissioners to make partition of the said tract of land, pursuant to an act, entitled, "an act for the more easy partition of lands held by Co-partners, joint tenants, and tenants in common" passed the eleventh day of November in the year of our Lord 1789—Given under my hand the 30th day of August A. "Tigre, Jaffa, May 30, 1799.

"My Dear Sir,

"In compliance with your wishes, I send you the enclosed paper, as containing all the information you can wish to convey to your principals, and a proof of my wish to further their interest and your intentions to the utmost of my power.

Your very faithful humble servant,

(Signed) W. SIDNEY SMITH.

"P. Toome, Esq. &c. &c. &c.
Gonfautonple."

To Rear Admiral Blanket, commanding his Majesty's ships in the Red Sea, and to J. Wilson, Esq. Agent to the Honourable East India Company, appointed by the Governor and Council of Bombay.

"Tigre, St. Jean D'Acre Bay, May 16, 1799.

"Your letter of the 27th of February, from Judda announcing your mission from the Honourable Governor in Council of Bombay, has reached me here.

"Buonaparte, finding his population and his resources diminished in Egypt, made an incursion into Syria, in hopes to make himself master of the treasure amassed by Gezar Pacha, and having taken Gaza and Jaffa, after a feeble resistance, advanced to this town which he laid siege to on the 18th of March last. The Pacha having sent me timely information of his approach, I hastened to this anchorage, and arrived before the French army time enough to put the place in some state of defence to resist Europeans. I was enabled to furnish Gezar Pacha with heavy guns and ammunition, without dismantling the ships, having the good fortune to intercept Buonaparte's battering train of artillery on board his flotilla from Alexandria and Damietta, the whole of which, to the number of eight sail, while they were a great loss to the enemy, affording us the most effectual means of annoying them in their approaches. The town standing on a rectangular point of land, in the form of a square, of which two sides are washed with the sea, his Majesty's ships could likewise afford the protecting of their guns to the garrison, and to the working parties detached from them, to throw up two ravelins, which taking the enemy's nearest approaches in flank, have considerably impeded his operations. It would be difficult to enter into the detail of the events of this most singular siege; suffice it to say, we have been within a stone's throw of each other for near two months. The enemy having very early made a lodgment on the crown of the glacis, and mined the tower, forming the inland angle of the town wall (which is composed of curtains and square towers after the manner of the 12th century) Buonaparte having transported cannon from Jaffa, and effected a breach the 13th day of the siege, attempted to storm, and was repulsed; since which, he has made no less than eleven desperate attempts to carry the place by assault, in each of which he has been unsuccessful, and obliged to retire with the loss of the flower of his army, and eight General officers killed and wounded.

"The army, totally dispirited and worn down with fatigue and defeat, refused to mount the breach any more over the putrid bodies of their companions; they were consequently paraded yesterday, and furnished with shoes and water gourd to enable them to cross the desert again. My emissaries in the French camp inform me that Suez is mentioned there as the object of Buonaparte's speculation, though without any hopes of a disguised, diminished, and exhausted army ever reaching it, at least to act offensively. I am taking measures to cause an active and harassing pursuit.

"I trust to hearing from you by all possible opportunities through Egypt, as well as by way of Aleppo. I shall of course endeavour to keep you informed of what passes on this side the Isthmus.

"I have the honour to be, &c.

(Signed) W. SIDNEY SMITH.

"P. S. JAFFA, May 30, 1799. I write you via Aleppo, on the 16th instant. I am enabled to send this duplicate of my letter by the good offices of Hameel, Bahaw of Jerusalem, whom I have the satisfaction of joining here, in pursuit of Buonaparte's beaten and retreating army. He was obliged to raise the siege of Acre on the 20th. Knowing his intentions as above mentioned, I preceded his van column as far as Gaza, in his march along the beach, and harassed it where it turned inland, but not unmolested by the Arabs. The pride of the vanquished ci-devant conqueror not allowing him to make the natural overture in favour of the wounded, after having closed all intercourse by an insolent letter to me, for fear of the consequences of the general defection of his army, he carried these poor wretches to this place by land, where it being found impracticable to carry the work of them farther, they were embarked on board all the vessels to be found here, together with his twelve and eight pounders cannon and howitzers, which were too heavy for land carriage in the sand. These vessels were sent to sea, to proceed to Damietta, without water, provisions, or means to navigate them, which I must attribute to precipitation and want of arrangement, rather than any thing else. Be this as it may, those poor wretches who could move, decided to flee straight for us in perfect confidence of our affording them the good office of humanity; in which they were not disappointed. We are thus put in possession of the twelve pounders, by which the first breach was made; as to the 24, 18, and mortars which made the last, they lay scattered along the road with the dead and dying, the whole way between Acri and this place. The remnant of this mighty host is creeping towards the confines of Egypt, in such a state, that if the grand army could but come up with them they would fall an easy prey. Buonaparte trusts to meeting reinforcements from Grand Cairo; but I have, I hope, found occupation for the portion of his army left there; so that whatever part of his force reaches Suez, it cannot be formidable to India. Be pleased to forward a duplicate of this letter to Captain Willson, at Judda, for the information of the government in India.

"I have the honour to be, &c.

(Signed) W. S. SMITH.

From the London Gazette.

ADMIRALTY OFFICE, Aug. 3.

Copy of a letter from Sir William Sidney Smith, Knight, Captain of his Majesty's ship Tigre, to Evan Nepean, Esq. dated at Acre, 3d of May, 1799.

Sir,

I have the honour to enclose you copies of my letters to Earl St. Vincent, of the 7th April and 2d instant, for the information of my Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty; as also a sketch of the position of the forces. The enemy have made two attempts since yesterday morning to force the two British ravelins, but were repulsed with loss. The works have now cannon mounted on them, and are nearly completed. We have thus the satisfaction of finding ourselves, on the forty-sixth day of the siege, in a better state of defence than we were the first day the enemy opened their trenches, notwithstanding the increase of the breach which they continue to batter with effort; and the garrison having occasionally closed with the enemy in several forties, feel greater confidence that they shall be able to resist an assault, for which they are prepared.

I have the honour to be, &c.

W. SIDNEY SMITH.

Tigre, St. Jean D'Acre Bay,

May 16, 1799.

My Lord,

I have the honour to inform your lordship, that as soon as the return of fine weather, after the equinoctial gale, allowed me to approach this unsheltered anchorage, I resumed my station in the bay with the squadron under my orders. I found the enemy had profited by our forced absence, to push their approaches to the counterescarp, and even to the ditch, of the north east angle of the town wall, where they were employed in mining the tower, to increase a breach they had already made in it, and which had been found impracticable when they attempted to storm on the 13th instant. The Alliance and prize gun-boats, which had been caught in the gale, had fortunately rode it out except one; and captain Willmot had been so indefatigable in mounting the prize guns, under direction of an able officer of Engineers, colonel Philpiaux, that the fire therefrom had already slackened that of the enemy; still, however, much was to be apprehended from the effect of the mine, and a fortie was determined on, in which the British marines and seamen were to force their way into it, while the Turkish troops attacked the enemy's trenches on the right and left. The assault took place this morning just before day light; the impetuosity and noise of the Turks rendered the attempt to surprise the enemy abortive, tho' in other respects they did their part well. Lieutenant Wright, who commanded the seamen pioneers, notwithstanding he received two shot in his right arm as he advanced, entered the mine with the pike-men, and proceeded to the bottom of it where he verified its direction, and destroyed all that could be destroyed in its then state, by pulling down the supporters. Colonel Douglas, to whom I had given the necessary step of rank to enable him to command the Turkish colonels, supported the seamen in this desperate service with his usual gallantry, under the increased fire of the enemy, bringing off Lieutenant Write, who had scarcely strength left to get out of the enemy's trench, from which they were not dislodged, as also Mr. Janverin, midshipman of the Tigre, and thereto the wounded. The action, altogether, speaks for itself, and says more than could be said by me in praise of all concerned. I feel doubly indebted to colonel Douglas for having preserved my gallant friend lieutenant Wright, whose life, I am happy to say, is not deprived of by the surgeon. We have, however, to lament the loss of a brave and tried officer, major Oldfield, who commanded the Thebeus's marines, and fell gloriously on this occasion, with two of the men under his command. Our loss in wounded is twenty-three, among whom is lieutenant Beaty of the marines, slightly. The Turks bro't in about sixty heads, a greater number of muskets, and some intrenching tools, much wanted in the garrison. A farther attack on the enemy's second parallel was not to be attempted without a greater number of regular troops. The return of the detachment was well covered by the Thebeus's fire, captain Miller having taken an excellent position to that effect.

The result of our days work is, that we have taught the besieger to respect the enemy they have to deal with, so as to keep at a greater distance. The apprehensions of the garrison are quieted as to the effect of the mine, which we have bid's learnt how to countermine with advantage, and more time is gained for the arrival of the reinforcements daily expected.

I have the honour to be, &c.

THE Court for the appointment of Guardians of the Four for the ensuing year, met this day according to law, at the City Hall, in the city of Philadelphia, but a sufficient number of county magistrates not appearing, and the new members of the Board of Guardians returned to serve, not being present, the Mayor, Aldermen and Justice Wheeler, adjourned the Court to the Almshouse, in the city of Philadelphia, at eleven o'clock the same day; when being assembled, together with ten members of the old Board of Guardians, including four members of the old Board of Managers, of the Almshouse, and none of the new members appearing, it was thought advisable to adjourn the Court to Monday the eleventh day of November next ensuing, then to meet at the City Hall, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to which time and place the said Court is adjourned, of which all persons concerned are to take notice.

To BOTANISTS, GARDENERS and FLORISTS.

AND to all other ladies and gentlemen, curious in ornamental, rare exotic or foreign plants and flowers, cultivated in the green house, hot house, or stove, and in the open ground—a large and numerous variety of such rarities is now offered for sale, being the acquirement of many years earnest application, great assiduity, and considerable expence.

The present proprietor having, from the natural growth and successful increase of his plants, as well as from frequent other acquisitions and additions to his collection, so far increased it as to render the allotted apartments not sufficiently large and commodious, is induced to make this offer, or sacrifice. After reserving a general and suitable stock, he has to spare a well assorted and great variety of those things, comprising a beautiful collection, sufficient to decorate, furnish, and ornament a spacious or handsome green-house at once. The whole collection, for that department, will be sold on very moderate and easy terms; or the proprietor may be induced to divide it into two equal lots; but he does not on any account intend to allow them to be selected or culled out by separately selling single plants or small lots in any thing like a retail way.

The whole is a truly valuable collection, such as is very rarely to be met with for sale on this side the Atlantic—indeed a moiety of them would comprise a very desirable and extensive variety, consisting of many or most of the tropical fruits, and other rare and curious finely ornamental trees, shrubs, and plants, with a numerous and abundant assortment of choice bulbous, tuberous, and fibrous rooted flowering and ornamental plants in mixtures; all of good or superior kinds, as may be seen by the catalogue. For which, and for any further necessary information, please to apply to John Cummings, at the Almshouse, Messrs. David and Cuthbert Landrich, gardeners and nursery-men, in High Street, above Twelfth Street, Philadelphia, Mr. William Booth, in the same line of business, Baltimore, or Mr. David Williamson, Greenwich Street, New-York.

N. B. It is now a good time and proper season to build a green-house, and to remove plants.

SPECULATION.

TO BE SOLD,

AT Public Vendue, on Monday the 23d of September next, at 2 o'clock, P. M. at the house of the Subscriber, living in the town of New-Castle, State of Delaware, a number of valuable suitable for building on, being the South square of the flourishing town of New-Castle aforesaid, distant from Philadelphia thirty-three miles.

This valuable property is highly capable of improvement, being immediately on the river Delaware, having a number of wharf lots on it; and from the depth of the water (earth and materials for wharfing being easily procured) there is no doubt but wharves would bring a handsome interest.

This property consists of five acres more or less, in one body; lays high, and is divided into lots to suit every description of persons. New-Castle is one of the most healthy and flourishing towns on the continent; and from the increase of trade it has raised property to four times the value it was even years past. The number of vessels bound out and in, which stop for supplies of stock, &c. &c. and the whole carriage of goods between Philadelphia and Baltimore, is now through this place. The packets and stages from the aforesaid cities, &c. &c. make it very lively; there is not, at this time, one house to be rented in the place; and the number of applications for houses make it an object for persons to improve. There are a number of elegant and useful buildings now going on, a Public Academy and several private schools. The malignant Fever has never made any progress, and the Ague scarcely known; the number of children in this place is a convincing proof of the healthiness of it. The prospect of the river Delaware, up and down is delightful; as far as the eye can distinguish you may view the vessels in different attitudes. There is reason to suppose that public piers for the Navy will be built here, 2 vessels can sail from this place when the river is fast at Philadelphia.

The conditions of sale will be easy and made known on the day of sale. Places of public worship, market and mills are very contiguous.

JOHN BARRAGE.

N. B.—A plat of the above will be exhibited any time previous, as well as on the day of sale.

AT a meeting of the General Board of the Guardians of the Poor,

PRESENT,

Charles Swift, Jacob Greble, William Holdernefs, Samuel Gatliff, Luke W. Morris, William Vanduzen, Charles Pleasants, Matthew Vanduzen, Geraldus Stockdale, James Engle.

Whereas the distressed situation of many of the inhabitants of the city of Philadelphia arising from the present calamity, requires immediate relief; and whereas, from the general absence of the freeholders, and other taxable inhabitants, it has become impracticable to continue the collection of the taxes appropriated for the support of the poor.

Therefore resolved, That Samuel Gatliff and Charles Pleasants shall be a committee from this Board, to negotiate a loan from either of the Banks in this city, amounting to ten thousand dollars, five thousand of which to be advanced immediately, and the other five thousand, when in the opinion of this Board it shall become necessary.

Resolved, That such part of the buildings at Masters' Place, as belong to the Guardians of the Poor, be appropriated for the reception of such children, as may become orphans in consequence of the present calamity, and that Luke W. Morris be appointed to procure Nurses, and other proper attendants for them, and generally to superintend that part of the Encampment.

Resolved, That William Holdernefs, William Priclon, James Engle, and Matthew Vanduzen, Guardians of the Poor, in conjunction with Dr. Samuel P. Griffiths, John Evans, Thomas Harrison and John Jones, shall be a committee for granting relief to the poor and distressed inhabitants of the city of Philadelphia, the District of Southwark, and the Northern Liberties, which committee shall keep an account of the persons relieved, and the sums expended; having also power to appoint such persons as they may deem qualified to assist in visiting all and every house in which sick or distressed persons are resident, in order that full and effectual relief may be afforded.

Resolved, That Luke W. Morris be the Treasurer of the above committee, and that the money which may be borrowed from the Banks, agreeably to a resolution of this day, be lodged in his hands to defray the expences of the above committee, and such as may be incurred in maintaining the orphan children at Masters' Place.

From Paris papers.

PARIS, July 24, 1799.

The Minister of Justice to the Central administrators, and to the Commissioners of the Executive Directory with those administrations.

CITIZENS,
The law of the 24th of this month is designed to destroy once more the vain hopes of royalism. Too cowardly to attack openly the friends of liberty, it is by infamous assassinations that the royal scoundrels had hoped to spread terror amongst the republicans.

Blood the most pure has flowed: Citizens known for their attachment to the revolution, have fallen the victims of their principles; the public functionaries have perished by the steel of assassins.

Evils of such magnitude have rendered indispensable means at once energetic and adequate to arrest the disastrous effect of these proceedings.

The Legislative Body has found these means in the subjoined law, inserted in the Bulletin 295 No. 1319, relative to the repression of robberies and assassinations, and to the responsibility of the communes upon the territory of which they are committed.

It has for its object to interest in the personal safety of the republicans, even those individuals whose dangerous influence has delivered them to so many perils.

All the dispositions of the law of the 24th Messidor ought to obtain the greatest publicity; but it is particularly interesting to cause to be known to all the citizens those of the 25th and 26th articles, which ordain and fix the recompenses in favor of those who shall aid in the arrestation of emigrants, of the transported, and of the assassins.

The law to which I refer, presents measures rigorous but necessary. It is to you citizens administrators, that it will belong to prevent private passions from adding to their severity. Penetrate yourselves with the purity of the intention of the legislators, and, like them, lose not ever your view to the safety of the Republic.

The Legislative Body has thought it useful to announce this important law by an address which passes with energy, all the miseries attached to civil dissensions: You ought, citizens, to cause this address also, to be proclaimed and published.

May it convince all men who breathe the air of France, whatsoever may have been their opinions, their feelings or their hopes, that there no longer remains to them but one source of peace and happiness, the maintaining of the republic, and a sincere union round the constitution of the 3d year.

Health and fraternity.

The Minister of Justice,

LAMBRECHTS.

The Legislative Body, after having declared urgency, makes the following address:

The Legislative Body to the French People.

FRENCHMEN!
It is upon your most dear interests, it is upon the inappreciable benefits of internal peace, it is upon the means of recalling and fixing it among you, that your representatives find it necessary to address you this day.

Frenchmen, bitter civil dissensions seem already to spring up afresh in some departments of the west and the south, threatening to extend their ravages to other points of the republic.

To arrest their course, your legislators are about to take the most severe but necessary measures, against those men whom a long and fatal experience has too well signified as the machinators of our disorders.

But the bridle of the law must not remain isolated by the voice of reason.

It is above all to you, simple men, whom the machinations of the ill disposed have too often led astray, to render you the instruments to their views which are subversive of the order established by the constitution and the laws.

The perfidious men! they feign to complain of you, and they wish only to irritate you; they unceasingly retrace to you, the mischiefs of the revolution; but they never tell you, that by your opposition, they were the principal authors of them.

In speaking to you of your interests, they dream but of their own, and they wish only to re-occupy their ancient usurpations.

And what! would it be for the re-establishment of the Dimes, of the cortées, and of feudalism, that they would wish to arm Frenchman against Frenchman?

Good and honest inhabitants of the country, how could you regret such a system, or call it to mind without indignation?

Citizens of all the States, inhabitants of the cities and of the fields, could you have forgotten that your political regeneration was touching and sublime to you, from the first moments of the revolution?

No, such impressions cannot be effaced, and you would not now resume those chains which you broke with indignation. You will not submit yourselves to them with impunity, you who, at every epoch have served the revolution: vengeance would await you.

And you too, lethargic men who say the revolution without enthusiasm but without hatred, do you believe that your simple indifference would not be set up as a reproach to you by your insolent vanquishers.

Your interest above all, is to ward off from the French soil this torrent of miseries, which would inundate it, if certain criminal hopes could be realized.

Let civil dissensions cease, then, that we may have no other cares left but those of repelling the external foe.

Citizens, in the midst of a terrible war, which, perhaps, cannot much longer exist, and at the close of a disastrous administration, you suffer, without doubt, your representatives groan at it, and they will labor without relaxation to prevent the renewal of the evils which have accompanied many epochs of the revolution.

They will know how, in concert with the regenerated directory, to gather, when it shall present itself, that peace worthy of the French people and of its allies.

But that peace, the object of your prayers and of ours, that peace which must recall to the French territory abundance and prosperity, do not go to commit it, or to throw it at a distance, by civil troubles; and if these yet remain sacrifices for you to make, let them be for your country, and not in cutting one another's throats.

Ah what! the French blood would again flow for a cause other than that of liberty; and there are men inflexible enough to hope for happiness in the consequences of a civil war!

The mangled carcases, the devastated fields, the burnt houses, would they not then be any more objects of affliction.

Far from us be the thought that such a moral degradation could obtain admission into general life.

In the meanwhile bands of Royal assassins flew themselves in divers departments, and attack the republicans.

These germs of a new civil war have not come to the knowledge of your representatives, without exciting them at the same time to seek the means of checking them, by offering to the republicans a guarantee against their enemies; and it is that which they are about to make.

Patriots, preserve or resume an energetic and wise attitude; the Legislative Body and the Directory are truly decided to cause the republic to triumph.

And you who were the blind instruments in assassinating the republicans, your artisans and cultivators whom they reckon among the assassin bands, return to your working tools and your ploughs; lay down those arms which you would turn against your country: your tranquil retreats call you back, and your fields of subsistence must not be converted into fields of carnage.

You, finally, ex-nobles, parents of emigrants, and progenitors of rebels, you who have so great an influence upon the miseries of your country; you who might prevent crime, but who could not to it often, bear in mind that you are this day responsible for the tranquility of the interior: labour then to maintain it, for it is at this price alone that you will one day be admitted into the great family with all the rights of its other children.

Let the departments infested by Chouanerie return to order, if they will to return to their common rights; let those departments, as yet strangers to civil troubles, continue to merit an honorable exception; let internal peace, in a word, be solidly re-established, and we shall soon resume without, the attitude of victory.

[This address displays the situation of the republic in deep shadow: the prospect held out of the return of peace, which constitutes its most prominent topic, and the striking contrast of the government towards that unhappy body of men the ex-nobility and gentry, a thing entirely novel, present to us striking indications of the weak state of the present authority. The war, the persecution of the loyalists, and most other leading measures of the republicans, have evidently become unpopular; yet it is by these means alone that the republican form has subsisted or can subsist in France; hostility to those measures, therefore is truly enough assigned by the revolutionists to royalism, and their bending in any measure to the impressions of the popular clamours, is a proof that those clamours have swola to a degree which no longer admits of their being contemned.]

After a careful perusal of the files of several Paris papers, (which come down four days later than had been received in London, at the date of our last accounts from thence) we have been able to extract little information of leading importance. They abound, however, in accounts of the internal difficulties of the republic; these are barely mentioned in outline, all the different editors appearing studiously to avoid detail. It appears that popular disturbances exist to a greater or less extent in almost every department; in some they call out with great fury for the execution of "the Triumvirate," Talleyrand, Scherer, &c. in others, religion is made the pretext of insurrection, and in others they openly display the white banner. The government attributes all these movements to royalism.

Since the wife measure adopted by government, of cutting off the intercourse between America and France, by which a vile crew of foreign Sousculotte merchants and some few base natives were fattening on the country they were betraying, the gazettes of France have rarely reached this country. These now wear the same face of degeneracy and decay with every thing else which has been touched by the harpy hand of revolution. A violent attempt has been recently made to restore the liberty of the press; it however failed, and the few original compositions which appear, consist of sterile eulogies on the excellence of a government and constitution which is incessantly crumbling to atoms, or fill more miserable lamentations at the extinction of every vestige of literature in France, which they regret only as it may tend to constitute a reproach to the revolution. These, with dry details of the idle gabble of the Parrots of the two councils, constitute the sum and substance of a French gazette.]

M'KEAN.

To the Editor of the York Herald.

SIR,
Please to insert the following letter, and oblige your's, &c. J. C.

To the Honourable THOMAS M'KEAN, Esq. Doctor of Laws, Chief Justice of the State of Pennsylvania, &c. &c. &c.

SIR,
I scarcely thought it possible among the vicissitudes of human affairs, that I should have to address you through the channel of a Newspaper; but it seems the period has arrived, when it has become necessary for me, in order to contradict the vile slander that has been propagated, and the odium attempted to be thrown upon me, by those who I presume, act by your authority; I mean certain Addressers of the Public in this place, that have, through the medium of your friend Solomon Myer's press, among other things, stated, "Another charge is, that M'Kean should have said, that York county was a Tory county; but the truth is, Mr. M'Kean never either expressed or entertained such an opinion. It is the fabrication of party men, and circulated with a view, to prejudice the people of York county against our Republican candidate."

Whether the above charge is true, and the assertion of your friend untrue, I leave you and the public to determine, when I solemnly declare, that you, it the house of John Watson, Esq. in Milford county, in the presence of the honorable Edward Shippen and Edward Shippen Bud Esqs. did assert, without any previous provocation, "that the people of York supported the British Corporal, and were a pack of damn'd Tories;" and I replied they were "as good Whigs as your Honor," &c.

At another time, at Hartley's Tavern, near Bedford, in the presence of a Mr. Shields, you said "the members of Assembly from York county, were damn'd fools, and that you could not get them to do what you wanted;" to which I replied that was the reason the county sent such men, for was it known that you had any influence over them, they never would be elected. At another time, I heard you say "York was a Tory county;" and I then replied it was not, nor would I suffer such slander. I have also heard you say, that every word of the letter written by Mr. Jefferson, to Mazzini, was untrue; and that "General Washington, had the great deal of good during the Revolution, but a great deal of mischief since that period."

Those who wish for further information, respecting your assertions, and conduct, at the times and places above mentioned, have an opportunity of satisfying themselves, by applying to the gentlemen whose names with reluctance, I have been thus publicly obliged to mention; and as to the other assertions, if necessary, I am willing to make oath of. I am sorry that you and I, whom I have above alluded to, have not it necessary for me, thus publicly, state the facts; and the consequences that may arise therefrom, you and them will know to whole account they ought to be paid.

With a hope that you may not be elected Governor, and a wish that you may remain in the station you now hold, am,

Sir, your most obedient,
JOHN CLARK.

BOSTON, Sept. 25.

A gentleman from Connecticut informs, that he learnt there, from high authority, that our Envoys to France, were to sail immediately for Europe.

FROM GUADALOUPE.

On Saturday evening last arrived in town Mr. Joseph Clark, in 27 days from Guadeloupe, where his vessel had been condemned.

Americans, who are captured and carried into Guadeloupe, on their arrival on shore, are received by a guard of eight black soldiers who conduct them to what they call the Government house—and there orders are given for their commitment to prison.—There is no distinction between officers and seamen, good and bad. Those who have ability to pay 14 dollars per week for board are the only exempt. Such may obtain security for their parole, and then are permitted to promenade the town. Americans are treated very contemptuously. If any one speaks in favour of the Government he is pronounced a damned Englishman, JOHN ADAMS' slave, &c. &c. They court opportunities of abusing the President; and they hug themselves when they conceit they have fired a good shot at him. At a dinner table, recently, one Berjean, a Frenchman, gave this toast, "John Adams and slavery—Tom Jefferson and liberty." Many Americans were present at this insult, and resented it in the only way in their power, that of instantly withdrawing.

Captain Davis, of Norfolk, was imprisoned four months at Basseterre, for informing Commodore Barry's flag officer, that there were 24 Americans there more than the French accounted for—which was the fact. He was finally released on the spirited remonstrance of Mr. Clarkson, United States Consul at St. Kitts. August 23, twenty-eight Americans left Basseterre, for St. Kitts, in a cartel sent by Mr. Clarkson, for the purpose. The vicinity of Guadeloupe, is a fine field for American cruizers.

SALEM, September 24.

Captain Ropes, of the brig Bessey, left Gonaves the 1st of September, and arrived here on Tuesday last. The day after sailing, he fell in with the George Washington frigate, conveying nine sail of Americans from Port-au-Prince for the United States—their names unknown. The Lieutenant of the frigate, who came on board Captain Ropes informed him, that Toussaint had got possession of the forts at the mouth of the harbour of Cape Nicholas Mole; that he had a large body of troops back of the town, which was then in possession of Rigaud's troops; that two armed vessels lying off and on the harbour belonged to him; and that it was hourly expected the town would fall into his hands. Shortly after a grand salute was fired from the forts, and the armed vessels bore up into the harbour; from which Capt. Ropes concluded that Toussaint's troops had got possession of the town.
